Help test a new telephone interview to screen for early cognitive decline

We are looking for people aged 65 or older, who are cognitively healthy or who have a diagnosis of mild cognitive impairment or mild Alzheimer’s disease. Volunteers answer questions about their memory and other thinking skills over the telephone, from their own home. The study takes about 30 minutes, and is being conducted through a collaboration between the Georgetown Memory Disorders Program and Marymount University.

If interested, please contact: Brigid Reynolds, RN, MSN, NP
Clinic Coordinator & Clinical Trial Nurse Practitioner
Georgetown University Memory Disorders Program
202-687-3350
Brigid.Reynolds@georgetown.edu